A WILL AND A WAY—Seven-year-old Freddie Gilbert of Stockton, Calif., who lost his arms to two circus bears in Mexico last September, has learned to operate a typewriter with his teeth. The plucky lad pounds the keys of the electric machine with a dowel. His arms were amputated near the shoulders after the bears mangled him when he reached into their cage to pet them.

Senate Gives Solid Backing To Bohlen As Russian Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate opened the way for speedy departure of Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen to Moscow with a rousing 74-13 vote of confidence yesterday in President Eisenhower's choice of the career diplomat as ambassador to Russia.

Ending a month of bitter controversy, the Senate's lopsided vote submerged critics who charged that Bohlen would carry left-over policies of the Truman regime into the new Eisenhower administration.

Receiving the news at relatives' home in Bryn Mawr, Pa., Bohlen said he was not certain when he would take up his new post. The State Department said he would probably be sworn in early next week and leave soon thereafter.

Eleven Republicans and two Democrats fought to the final roll call against approval of the 48-year-old Russian-language expert, picked personally by Eisenhower as the best qualified man for the cold war listening post at the Kremlin.

Afterward Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), one of the most vocal of these critics, wished Bohlen well. The Wisconsin senator maintained, however, that many who voted for the appointee did so not because they had confidence in him but only to uphold Eisenhower.

Roberts Resigns As GOP Chief

Ike Says Kansan Made Wise Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans were looking for a new national chairman today, after C. Wesley Roberts' abrupt resignation under criticism by Kansas legislative investigators.

But one member of the National Executive Committee, Wayne J. Hood of Wisconsin, asserted the GOP National Committee should refuse to accept the resignation.

Earlier President Eisenhower said Roberts made "a wise decision."

Roberts resigned last night within hours after a Kansas legislative inquiry committee reported he had violated at least the spirit of the state's lobbying law. Blaming a political plot, Roberts declared "my conscience is clear," but said he felt his usefulness as national chairman was destroyed.

Helped Sell Hospital

Involved in the Kansas investigation was Roberts' part in helping to sell the state a $110,000 hospital building, and accepting an $11,000 fee. He had no party or government job at the time, and said he acted only as a public relations man, not a lobbyist.

Support for Roberts built up among Wisconsin Republicans even before his resignation was announced. The Wisconsin GOP Executive Committee adopted unanimously a statement prepared by Hood, saying, in part:

"We Roberts is a good man as chairman of the Republican National Committee, and, if we are to permit the opposition to run the reputation of every person that we elect chairman of the Republican National Committee, no one of any consequence will be willing to serve."

Early Recruit For Ike

Roberts, 49-year-old former newspaperman, politician and war-time Marine major, was an early recruit to Eisenhower's political cause. He worked for the general's nomination six months before the 1952 Republican National Convention. He was named national chairman Jan. 17, with the President's concurrence, to replace Arthur Summerfield of Michigan who became postmaster general.

When he announced his resignation, Roberts said he was the victim of "a carefully contrived and thinly veiled plot, growing out of a fierce factional fight in Kansas state politics."

Marines Again Capture Vegas

SEOUL (AP)—Weary U. S. Marines captured Outpost Vegas again today in a bitter hour of fighting up its gentle, but deadly slopes.

Rooting Chinese from trenches, they slammed back a Red counter-attack at the crest and won back the low Western Front hill for the second time in two days.

Vegas fell Thursday night under a Red spring attack that broke Monday when 3,500 Chinese swarmed around Old Baldy, 26 miles northeast.

The Reds still hold Baldy, now a red-dirt target for Allied artillery and bombs.

As ground fighting roared on, Communist Mig jets flew south and clashed with U. S. Sabre jets in a number of dog fights, but no destruction claims were made.

Planes Rock Hill

Other American warplanes swept over Vegas, sending rockets, and bombs tearing into the Chinese. Marine tanks and big guns fired steadily.

It took the hard-pressed Marines a bitter hour to make the final 400 yards up the shell-torn slope, blanketed by Communist mortar fire. An officer at the front said a Chinese counterattack hit the Marines immediately after they reached the top, but it was cut down.

36-Hour Fight

The low outpost hill echoed from the shock of explosions from more than 36 hours of continuous fighting, as the Chinese desperately tried to hold on to the outpost they overran Thursday night. The Reds charged fanatically through their own bursting shells.

A division staff officer said the Chinese obviously meant to keep the hills they paid so dearly for. He estimated Chinese guns hurled 35,000 rounds yesterday in a vain attempt to prevent today's assault. Red firing slackened today.

Floods Leave 1,000 Homeless In East

By The Associated Press

Early spring floods in New England today left some 1,000 persons homeless, threatened hundreds of other families and isolated a dozen communities.

Rivers in the northeast, fed by torrential rains and melting snow this week, were on the rampage in the northeast. However, flood conditions appeared easing in upstate New York.

Floodwaters blocked highways in sections of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Central New York state. Rail traffic out of Concord, N. H., was at a standstill.

More rain fell in many parts of the flood belt today.

Passengers Reported As Calm After Three-Train Collision

CONNEAUT, O. (AP) — "We were bled along, and then I felt a jolt."

That was the way Earl B. Mitchell of Garwood, N. J., described his first reaction as a passenger on a New York Central train involved in a three-way wreck near here last night.

"The jolt didn't seem too hard at the time," Mitchell continued, "but the next thing I knew I was laying on the floor and my whole left side felt numb. Just as I was going down I saw my bag, which was filled with machinery, fly off the rack and go soaring about 10 feet up. It just missed a woman."

"Some of the people hit the backs of the seats so hard that a lot of the seats were very quiet. But everything was very quiet. It's funny, but instead of saying much everybody started looking for their luggage."

Moses White, 67, of Hogsburg, N. Y., said his wife, Lydia, 67, was lying down asleep in the rest room. "When I got to her," he said, "she was lying on the floor and told me the back of her head hurt. They took her away and that's all I know. I don't even know what hospital she's in."

4 Dead May Be Still Hidden In Wreckage

Speeding Passenger Trains Smash Into Derailed Freight Cars

CONNEAUT, O. (AP)—At least 17 persons died in a pile-up of two passenger trains and a New York Central freight Friday night, and a deputy coroner said "maybe four more bodies" were hidden under wreckage. That would raise the death toll to 22.

Deputy Coroner Wallace C. Mulligan of Erie, Pa., county said one body was taken from the jumble of torn and twisted cars 12 hours after the smash-up. Mulligan said: "I believe there may be four more in there."

Earlier today Coroner Warren Wood reported 16 bodies had been transported to Erie, 27 miles east of the wreck.

Sixty-two injured were in two hospitals in Erie, one here and one in nearby Ashtabula. Hospital reports were that only one of the 62 was in poor condition.

No Crewmen Hurt

None of 18 crewmen on the three trains was hurt.

The freight and the two express trains piled up between 10 and 11:30 p.m. A piece of pipe rolled off an eastbound freight, derailling some cars of a westbound freight that followed.

Into the derailed freight cars slashed a Buffalo-to-Chicago passenger train, roaring along at 80 miles an hour. A minute later the Southwestern Limited, enroute from St. Louis to New York, rammed the wreckage.

A railroad man had to run three miles to report the wreck, and the hurtling debris felled communication lines between here and Erie. More than 1,000 feet of rail were torn up.

One of the injured said it was nearly an hour before rescue workers got into the torn and twisted cars. And it was nearly eight hours later and after daybreak before the rescue and first-aid crews finished their task. Some injured were taken by handcar to a road where ambulances waited.

The wreck, blocking the NYC's main line, occurred on "State Line Curve" about four miles east of here and just across the Pennsylvania border.

Only a ratty lane to the area of the wreckage from the nearest highway two miles to the south. The lane soon was blocked with cars mired in hub-deep mud and left by their drivers with lights still piercing the drizzling darkness.

More than 1000 persons, hurt only slightly, were treated at an emergency Red Cross first-aid station. One man, Andy Aranyans, an

Reds Accept U.N. POW Plan

Propose Resumption Of Truce Talks

TOKYO (AP) — The Communists said tonight they accept a United Nations offer to exchange sick and wounded prisoners between the Korean War ends, and at the same time proposed immediate resumption of suspended armistice talks.

It was not immediately clear whether the acceptance depended upon resumption of the talks.

The Red answer, heard here, was broadcast over the Communist Peiping radio.

Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander who made the offer Feb. 22, said he had received the message.

"We are going to study this offer very closely," Clark told The Associated Press. "We want to be sure there isn't anything in it we don't understand."

He indicated a reply to the Reds would favor resumption of the truce talks if the Communists really meant their acceptance.

Even as the Red radio broadcast the message to Clark, Americans in Korea were fighting furiously to throw back the biggest Red assaults in five months.

The Communist reply was signed by North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Peng Teh-Huai, commanders of Chinese forces in Korea.

It said, "our side . . . fully agrees to your side's proposal to exchange sick and injured prisoners of war of both sides during the period of hostility."

The Chinese said Dec. 18 they were holding 3,198 American POWs.

Malenkov Frees Large Number Of Jailed Russian Criminals

MOSCOW (AP) — Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov's government announced a sweeping amnesty program today to free Soviet prisoners serving five-year terms or less—providing their crimes represented "no great danger to the state."

The amnesty decree, issued by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, said the pardons had been made possible by a decrease in crime and by the consolidation of the Soviet state system. The decree was published prominently in Russian newspapers and broadcast by Moscow radio.

The full amnesty program extends to most persons serving five years or less in prisons, corrective labor camps and other places of detention. Those serving more than five years will have their sentences reduced by half.

The pardons specifically do not apply, however, to anyone serving more than five years for counter-revolutionary crimes, large-scale theft or embezzlement of public property, gangsterism or premeditated murder.

Some prisoners will be freed regardless of the length of their sentences. They include women with children 10 years old or less, pregnant women, minors of 18 or less, men of 55 or more, women over 50 and persons suffering from incurable illnesses.

Prosecution will be halted, meanwhile, in all cases falling into these categories and in cases in which the major sentence would be five years or less.

The decree also called for a re-examination of the USSR's criminal laws and ordered the Justice Ministry to submit recommendations for changes.

The decree said the government deems "it is no longer necessary to retain in places of custody persons who have committed offenses representing no great danger to the state and who show by their conscientious attitude to work that they are fit to return to honest working life and become useful members of the community."

The amnesty was the second proclaimed by the Soviet Union since World War II. Shortly after hostilities ended, the government announced a broad amnesty under which a large number of criminals were freed and prosecution was halted on many cases under trial.

In an editorial, the government newspaper Izvestia described the decree as "a manifestation of the strength of the Soviet structure."

Jesus Paid It All

A singer writes while a minister prays

John T. Grape lived in Baltimore and played the organ at a Methodist church there. He made no claim to being a composer, but modestly said he occasionally "dabbled" at writing music.

One day, in 1865, Organist Grape was dabbling with his music writing when he came up with a tune which he thought might have merit. But Grape didn't bother to send his composition to a publisher. Instead, he just gave it to the pastor of the church where he played the organ and let it go at that.

Mrs. Elvina M. Hall lived in Baltimore and sang in the choir of the church where John Grape played the organ. Mrs. Hall made no claim to being a poetess but occasionally tried her hand at writing verse.

One Sunday morning, in 1865, Mrs. Hall was sitting in the choir loft of the church in Baltimore when the pastor, one Rev. Schrick, began offering one of those old-fashioned prayers that gives little promise of having an ending. After thumbing through the pages of her songbook, "The New Lute of Zion," Mrs. Hall began scribbling on the fly leaf. By the time the Rev. Schrick reached the delayed "Amen" of his prayer, Mrs. Hall reached the end of writing a four-verse poem on the fly leaf of "The New Lute of Zion."

Mrs. Hall didn't know that Organist Grape had written a piece of music and had given it to the Rev. Schrick. But, like Grape, she thought her poem might have merit and, like Grape, she gave it to her pastor. It is questionable, however, that Mrs. Hall divulged to the good minister the circumstances under which she had written her verses.

At any rate, when the Rev. Schrick read the poem, he recognized that the lines fit the music Grape had given him some days earlier.

Most hymns have been written under orthodox conditions, and few indeed have been set to music in so unique a manner, but few hymns have been more popular than this one, written on the fly leaf of a songbook while a minister prayed.

I hear the Saviour say
"Thy strength indeed is small,
Child of weakness, watch and pray,
Find in Me thine all in all."

Lord, now indeed I find
Thy power, and Thine alone,
Can change the leper's spots,
And melt the heart of stone.

For nothing good have I
Whereby Thy grace to claim—

I'll wash my garments white
In the blood of Calvary's Lamb.

And when, before the Throne,
I stand in Him complete,
"Jesus died my soul to save,"
My lips shall still repeat.

Chorus:
Jesus paid it all,
All to Him I owe;
Sin had left a crimson stain,
He washed it white as snow.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Things Happen When You Pray

I have a friend in Canada who is a slender little fellow, a man as meek and mild as anyone you might meet. Yet he is a great soul, and in his work he has touched thousands of lives. If you have not already heard of Dr. Albert E. Cliffe, you might note his name, because I think you will be hearing a great deal about him and his work.

Dr. Peale
Al Cliffe is a chemist and a successful one. Some years ago, he began to pay what for so many people is the price of success. He had ulcers. They became so bad that the doctors gave up hope for him. His doctor broke the bad news to him: "You have a month to live."

This wasn't the happiest information a man could get, and Al Cliffe lay there when the doctor left and said it over and over to himself, "I've only got a month to live."

When the doctor came to see him on the following day, Cliffe asked him, "How much time did you say I had to live?"

"About a month," the doctor answered.

"Well," Cliffe said, "what do you think I ought to do with myself?"

"Just take the best care of yourself you can so you'll be sure to live out the month," was the reply.

Cliffe thought for a moment and it came to him that if he only had a month to live, it didn't matter very much what kind of care he took of himself. So he said to the doctor, "Have you given me up?"

"No," the doctor responded, "I wouldn't put it that way. We'll fight to the last, but I fear that about a month is all you have left."

THEN, AS HE was lying there one day, he began to pray. He said, "Lord, if it be Thy will, let me be healed." He prayed in that way for a while and then, feeling he had nothing to lose, shortened it to, "Lord, let me be healed."

In writing about this later, he said he had decided to fall back completely on the promises of the Bible. He would go all out spiritually and boldly ask to be healed and at the same time believe he was going to be healed. For Al Cliffe this proved to be the right thing to do because he was healed and is a healthy man today.

In gratitude for his healing, he went to his church and asked what he could do to help. They gave him a Bible class. He increased that class from twenty-four members to over one thousand. Today he spends all his time teaching his classes and traveling all over the world telling people that, if they only pray big enough prayers, they can be healed of their diseases, failures and fears, and that they can accomplish great things. He writes books too, and they add up to this simple statement, "I was defeated and sick because I did not have God. I found God and I relieved, and new life is good."

FAITH IS THE most powerful force in the world. Don't be afraid to use it. Pray and expect great answers. If God says, "No," to you, that's His right and privilege and you have to take it. "Yes" to everything we ask for. But prayers of faith will help Him to say, "Yes."

Lack of faith itself forces negative answers. The prayer formula which I personally find most valuable is the following verse: "What things soever ye desire when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them."

Great things do happen when you pray and believe. Al Cliffe found health and an exciting new life as a result of his prayers. Pray with faith and a humble willingness to accept God's answers, and the most amazing things will happen in your life.

DEFEAT and VICTORY

One hundred sixty-two feet high and one hundred forty-seven feet wide Napoleon built his arch of triumph. Proudly it rises above the Place de l'Etoile reminding the world of an Emperor's early victories—and later defeats.

On the road from Bethphage to Jerusalem centuries before there had been another arch of triumph. Nature had fashioned it of palm trees. Beneath their bowing branches the Prince of Peace rode into the city that was to crucify Him.

Jesus, unlike Napoleon, never had need of a gigantic monument to help the world remember Him. The doors of a million churches bespeak His victory. Men pass through them not to gaze upon the majesty of carved stone, but to worship and serve the Son of God.

Napoleon bought for himself a transient glory at the price of other men's blood.

Jesus bought for All Men eternal life—at the price of His Own Blood!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For the sake of his children's sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Real And Present Danger

The next order of vital business in the U.S. Senate will be the amendment proposed by Sen. Bricker of Ohio to protect U. S. Constitutional freedom treaty law and executive agreements.

While this is primarily an issue for legal minds, all minds can comprehend that this is the danger which Sen. Bricker and at least 63 other senators hope to avert.

Legal minds are aware that the Constitution has been opened a tiny crack to admit the possibility of ruin. Since it is only legal minds which would know how to enlarge the breach already in existence, it is significant that so many legal minds agree it should be closed.

In this argument among lawyers it seems the part of wisdom to take the lawyers' word for it that lawyers are capable of trying to do what lawyers warn might be done.

Sen. Bricker's proposed amendment merely would prevent any treaty in which domestic rights and powers specified in the Constitution might be superseded or taken over by a foreign nation or an international organization.

This refers to that part of Article VI of the Constitution which establishes treaties as the "supreme-law of the land." Until Chief Justice Vinson ruled last year in a minority opinion that Harry Truman could seize private property in defiance of the Constitution to carry out its obligations under the United Nations treaty, the question was academic. At that point, it became a real and present danger.

There are treaties now under consideration which could set aside constitutional guarantees. No American wants to leave his rights to the discretion of other human beings. He wants them to be inscribed on paper, where they can be seen and respected by all.

By Any Index

It remains to be seen what price index the CIO now will demand, to replace the new one rigged by the Bureau of Labor Statistics to replace the old one on which cost-of-living clauses in existing wage contracts had been based.

It is assumed replacement will be in order because the new index now is showing the same decline as the old one, which was discarded because it was showing too much of a decline.

There is one price index which would hold up in any circumstances, but it never will be given official recognition. It is one which shows what American breadwinners actually do when it's time to make ends meet. Every American family lives by this index, which is compiled by experience.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics index showed a decline of four-tenths of one per cent in mid-February from the mid-January level. This was the result of a sharp decline in meat prices and a smaller decline in the prices of other food.

But it is possible the next report on the index may reflect sharp increases in coffee, cigarettes and gasoline. If so, this would become the basis for bargaining for higher wage levels. But the fact is, not everybody drinks coffee, smokes cigarettes, or uses gasoline. The fact is that coffee users are refusing to be held up by a ruthless squeeze to get more money out of them and that cigarette users have the privilege of cutting down on their consumption of cigarettes.

Price indexes have limited usefulness at best and no usefulness at all if they are going to be jiggered to make them say what they are supposed to say.

Competitive Enterprise

Another reason for wondering about the impact of competition on people who have clocked all their business experience during boom times was added when Chrysler Corp. announced retail cuts averaging $100 on its passenger automobiles.

H. H. Curtice, president of General Motors announcing that no price changes were planned for his organization's cars, added, "The automobile traditionally has been one of the most competitive in the country." Old-timers knew what he meant.

But new-timers, who never have known what it's like to compete for customers, fighting for every cent of advantage to be wrung out of a deal, can only guess what Mr. Curtice meant. Thousands of them in the automobile business and millions of them in other lines of enterprise have been accustomed to let the customers compete for the suppliers. It was not too long ago that a buyer had to attract favorable attention to get a chance to pay premium for buying a new car.

Still more recently, buyers of things in general were being warned by apologists for price controls that prices—including automobile prices—would soar out of sight if price controls were abandoned.

Now that one major manufacturer has cut prices, there is not the slightest danger that automobile prices will soar out of sight. Competitive enterprise is back in the saddle and riding hard.

Spiritual Diary for Lent

And he was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun...—Matthew 17:2.

The world is a looking-glass, and gives back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it, and it in turn will look sourly upon you; smile at it and with it, and it is a jolly, kind companion.

—William Makepeace Thackeray

Today's Message

The human face is exceedingly expressive. It lights up with laughter; it is beclouded by a frown; it scowls and snarls; it is white with rage, or flushed with anger. While the shape of the chin or the height of the forehead are of little importance, the face is truly the window of the soul.

We do make our faces, and there is a vast difference between a face that is made and one that is simply "made up." Our faces are made by our ideals, the strength of our convictions, the depth of our concern for our fellows, the extent to which we are willing to go in sacrificial living, and the reality of our personal faith in God, our Father.

Both our beliefs and our deeds are reflected in our faces. Purity, goodness and truth write infinitely better lines than selfishness. Faith in our fellow man will make a more attractive countenance than continuous suspicion. Belief in God, profound and reverent, will make a finer face than skepticism. And the person who goes about doing kindly deeds will have a face that is a perpetual benediction. A world shrouded in darkness is mutely crying for faces that reflect the light and beauty of the face of God.

Today's Prayer

O God, bless us and keep us; make Thy face to shine upon us and be gracious unto us; lift up Thy countenance upon us and give us peace both now and forevermore. Amen.

'Left Wing' Field Day

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Fight Over Bohlen Aids GOP Opposition

Politically speaking, the Eisenhower administration hasn't learned the ropes yet—or it would not have allowed a serious factionalism to crop up in Congress and threaten party solidarity.

Aided and abetted by an alert and resourceful "left wing" which is ready to destroy Eisenhower politically after it has disposed of Sen. McCarthy, the movement to sabotage the entire attack on communistic activity inside America has gained ground as a consequence of the unnecessary controversy over Charles E. Bohlen, ambassador-designate to Russia.

To drive a wedge between Senators McCarthy, Bridges, McCarran and the White House is a deliberate aim of the "left wing."

There were times when the Republican party knew how to talk things over quietly ahead of time and to thresh out differences privately. It was only the Democrats who subjected themselves to the publicity of open friction. Now things have changed.

For party solidarity is of the utmost importance to an administration which has a narrow majority in Congress, and the way to retain that solidarity is not to become involved in quarrels that are superfluous.

The wisest thing that has been said to keep the friction from spreading further must be credited to President Eisenhower himself, who refused at his press conference on Thursday to be goaded into making an issue of the fact that congressional investigations of executive agencies to root out subversives are continuing.

The President showed a proper respect for the legislative branch of the government—much more than some of the critics are doing with their efforts to make it appear mandatory for the Senate to confirm immediately or automatically anybody a president appoints to an ambassadorship.

The specious cry was raised among some shortsighted supporters of Eisenhower that to oppose Bohlen was to show lack of confidence in the judgment or the integrity of the President and the secretary of state, who made the nomination. The controversy was hailed as an "acid test" of executive responsibility.

But it wasn't that way when the shoe was on the other foot.

Thus, when Charles Evans Hughes was nominated in February 1930 to be chief justice of the United States and the so-called "liberals," led by Sen. Norris declared he should not be confirmed because of his "past connections" with law clients, nobody in the "left wing" of those days rose up to defend the nomination or the ground that to oppose it was a smear or an attack on the judgment and integrity of President Hoover, who made the nomination.

Likewise, when in April 1930 Judge John J. Parker of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was named by President Hoover to be associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, union labor rose up through the "McCarthys" on the floor of the senate to cry that a Parker decision in a case on the "Yellow Dog" union contract made him a bad security risk for labor.

Nobody on the "left wing" side was hesitant to smear the integrity of one of the finest judges America has ever had—and a man whom many labor leaders since have admitted should have been confirmed.

Then there was the case of Charles B. Warren of Michigan, who was named to be attorney general by President Coolidge. His confirmation was defeated by one vote in the Senate because critics thought his "past connections" in business would make him a bad security risk for the "left wing" in America.

Nobody on the so-called progressive side in the Senate at that time said the executive's appointment of a Cabinet officer was sacrosanct and that anybody a president wanted in his Cabinet should automatically be confirmed.

When President Truman in January 1946 nominated Edwin Pauley of California to be under secretary of the Navy, with the idea that he would later become head of the Navy after Forrestal was elevated to the secretaryship of defense, Harold Licks, secretary of the interior, opposed the nomination because of Pauley's oil connections.

Ickes resigned from the Cabinet in protest, and his views as given to Congress raised such a fuss that Pauley's name was withdrawn two months later.

Nobody at that time in the "left wing" defended Pauley from attack on the ground that it was a lack of confidence in the judgment or integrity of Mr. Truman, who made the appointment. The row was all supposed to be in the public interest.

When Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City, Democrat, was named by President Truman in August 1950 to be ambassador to Mexico, Sen. Ives of New York made a futile effort to hold it up until O'Dwyer's alleged past connections with gambling and racketeering interests could be probed.

Even though the nomination was plainly being made to take care of a Democratic party situation in New York City, from which O'Dwyer as a political factor was to be eliminated, there was no real investigation made before confirmation in the Senate. Was this in the public interest as the record stands today?

The members of the Senate have a solemn duty to perform in weighing the qualifications and personal history of every man who is nominated for high office and who is subject to confirmation "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."

In times like the present, the man who goes to Moscow as the American ambassador should be, like Caesar's wife, above all suspicion—and in this case particularly, above political suspicion. For anybody who reads last week's testimony by Bohlen as he so adroitly defended what happened at Yalta cannot but be convinced that he is an apologist for expediency and acquiescence in modern diplomacy and that he is scared by Soviet Russia.

The Bohlen episode was a political defeat for the Republican party and for the cause of moral principle which was tragically abandoned at Yalta. By seeming to accept Bohlen's views on Yalta, the Republican party has yielded to expediency, too, and the moral cases for "liberation" in Europe have been damaged.

Congressional Probes

By RICHARD FRYKLUND

Persons who cry, "They can't do that!" each time Congress announces an investigation into some new phase of American life are wrong. Legal precedent indicates Congress can investigate anything at any time.

The Constitution does not mention the congressional power to investigate. The courts, however, have decided that along with the power of legislation goes the implied power of investigation. Without freedom to investigate, the courts have ruled, Congress could hardly carry out its job of writing the nation's laws.

The investigative power is viewed as an aid to the process of "legislation" in the broad sense. It need not be used merely as an aid to the writing of a specific law. An investigation may properly be used as a very much generalized assist to the job of lawmaking. Thus, investigations can be employed to educate the public on what is best for the general welfare.

For instance, Congress may decide that the welfare of the nation would be promoted if the public better realized the menace of internal Communism.

Therefore Congress may educate the public through the medium of well-publicized investigations of Communism. The investigations make the public more aware of the problems the nation faces and make it easier for Congress to work.

Perhaps no more laws aimed at subversion need be passed. Several already are on the books. Nevertheless, if Congress feels that further enlightenment of the public is desirable, the congressional studies of Communism legally may continue.

And who is to decide whether a given investigation is aiding the legislative process? Congress decides.

The courts generally have assumed that in the absence of a stated legislative goal, Congress still must have had something legitimate in mind. So the benefit of the doubt goes to Congress.

There are four main purposes for congressional investigations:

1—To find facts needed to make a law. House and Senate committees, for instance, have spent almost 10 years investigating claims of ownership of "Tidelands" oil. Another law fixing control of the lards now is on its way through Congress.

2—To supervise the executive branch of government. The so-called watchdog committee does nothing but keep an eye on the administration of laws. The Atomic Energy. The preparedness subcommittee watches the defense program. Without these watchdog groups, Congress would not know how its laws were being carried out and would be legislating in the dark.

3—To inform the public. The House un-American Activities Committee does nothing but study and inform. Under the law it may investigate subversion wherever it can be found and "all other questions in relation thereto that would aid Congress in any remedial legislation." So under the law the Velde committee may ferret out suspected Reds in government, industry, Hollywood, the schools, or even in the churches (though what can be done legally is not always politically the bright thing to do).

4—To resolve questions concerning Congress's own membership. Subcommittees in both Houses now are studying alleged frauds in the 1952 elections. An investigation of Sen. McCarthy's fitness for office technically still is hanging fire. Without the power to control its own members, Congress conceivably could be stymied in its work.

The power of investigation would be a worthless tool without the power to compel persons to tell what they know and to produce records. So the courts recognize that Congress may subpoena witnesses and documents and punish for contempt persons who refuse to cooperate.

Congress may not override constitutional rights of a witness, however. A reluctant witness may recite the Fifth Amendment and decline to answer on the grounds of possible self-incrimination. That is a sure way to get off the hook.

Some witnesses have succeeded in another defense of silence; they have claimed the question asked was not pertinent to the investigation. Lower courts have more and more in the last few years tended to recognize a rule of pertinence.

Nevertheless, as many persons, including congressmen, have pointed out, the legal right to question a man and expect an answer does not carry with it the moral right to blacken unfairly the reputation of an innocent man.

Congress has been urged to adopt a great variety of added protections for witnesses. Reform of procedure would not, however, curb the legal right of Congress to investigate whatever it feels should be investigated.

Decline Of Communists

By RAYMOND MOLEY

All revolutions—bloody ones like that of Russia and France, peaceful ones like the New Deal—have their years on the stage of history, accomplish changes for good or bad, and then lesser leaders unsuccessfully attempt to stay in power on the basis of the frail memory and capricious gratitude of the public. Is there any reason to believe that the vast upheaval that began 32 years ago will be an exception?

Perhaps I should say that I have no intention of depending on the dangerous but very common practice of leaning heavily on supposed historical parallels in attempting to predict the future.

The past fails as a guide because what we read in history may not be the whole story or an accurate account of what happened. Also, we cannot give exact weight to changed conditions. But on the other hand, history helps us because it can give us clues on the basis of which we can seek more intelligently to judge the present.

There is no question but that the force of a revolutionary upheaval is, in terms of history, short lived. The full fury of the storm lasts months or a year or two, then there is a period of consolidation in which the surviving leaders or their successors try to build into the institutions of the country the principles and theories of the revolution.

Then, if there is no counter-revolution, the ruling group settles down to the often restless job of running the government. The grand sentiments which once stirred the public are repeated over and over. But the response grows less and less as conditions change, as those people who were once moved by the battle cry grow older or die, and as the young cannot understand the factors in the old regime that kindled the flame.

Now let us consider the situation facing the rulers of the U.S.S.R. in the light of the foregoing pattern of revolutionary history.

In the 32 years since the czar was dethroned, a new generation has been born and has grown to maturity. Those who had reached maturity in 1917 are dead or well past their peak of productivity or influence.

Very few, except a handful of old revolutionists like Vishinsky, can remember the czarist regime or can hate or dread the conditions that prevailed then.

Those who cannot remember the empire have been well indoctrinated. It is true. But they have no emotional reason to love the Communist creed. It is something to take for granted or to live with. And it is the way of human nature to be unhappy with prevailing conditions.

True, those conditions are well advertised as fine and as the product of Communist rulers. But if those who are living under them are not desirous of something better, they are violating the basic factor in human nature that makes survival and progress possible.

Meanwhile, those who rule have nothing to offer but more of the same and also, as a means of discipline, the terror of a police state. Stalin could be secure because he had become a symbol of national unity and a source of patriotic fervor. That cannot be so with those who succeed him.

And so with a spent revolution on their hands and with an over-extended control in lands to which the antecedents of the 1917 revolution mean nothing, the state of those rulers must be uneasy.

This does not mean an upheaval in Russia itself. But it means less power to hold those areas and allegiances on the extremities. It is in that periphery that we will first see the decline of Communist power.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Camino Comes Clear

(Being a review by Elmer (Texas) Twitchell, a critic who is as confusing in his criticism of "Cam no Real" as Tennessee Williams seems to have been in his authorship of Broadway's most talked about play.)

Here is a mystery play that is the complete mystification. We have long contended that the Whodunit had gone far enough and that the time had come for its replacement by the Whatzitt. Now our contention has been substantiated. Mr. Williams has given the theater something new, but no clue to what it is.

We have not been so moved in the theater since we saw a Shakespearian troupe play Uncle Tom's Cabin in a dark theater with the bloodhounds played by actors in Benda masks, and with Eliza making up her own ice as she fled across the frozen river. Little Eva, we remember, was represented by symbols or castnets or something. There was no Uncle Tom, due to an accident in transportation.

Ve liked the opening of "Camino Real" in which Kilroy comes down a cosmic stairway, the elevator service having been cut, asks the speaker at the Rotary Club lunch, "Where am I?" and gets the answer, "The wire is busy."

Slowly the action works up to a situation where the heroine sees clearly that she must either marry the man or fall Grant at Vicksburg. She decides to stall second, and not refund the money.

Here three characters, Abdullah, A. Ratt and Lady Mulligan arrive on a broomstick, played by two bassoon players and confess to the killing in a dispute with the wardrobe mistress who is so overworked she has declared the whole episode a border violation and gone over to the Theater Guild. We see clearly at this point the truth of the old adage that it never gets well if you pick it and that whenever the story gets dull you can stage a sprint into the audience, weather permitting.

Esmerelda refuses to abandon her child, despite the clear mandate of the United Nations and there is a tense scene in which a pigeon wearing a Homburg hat enters on an illuminated tight rope indicating through sheer symbolism that the electoral college result must be accepted no matter what Truman thought.

We now begin to see why civilization is what it is but the footprint left in front of the ice box is meaningless, due to the heavy fog and so many people running Helter Skelter, with Skelter winning by seven points in an overtime contest.

Here a character called First Street Cleaner enters with Second Street Cleaner and four dancing girls known as the Four Brooms. The First Cleaner walks to the pitcher's box to see if he has the signal for the next pitch correctly. Shelley and Keats have been taken out for walking four batters in a row. Carmen is up. Don Quixote's ball. Ten yards to go. "You may tie me to the railroad tracks if you wish but I will never sign those papers," says the White Queen.

This leaves the Brooklyn Club helpless and they would lose but for the action of a Third Street Cleaner who steps into this dramatic situation and bid four no trump. Three notes on a piccolo indicate the message "Drop that gun!" Then the action moved nine blocks north, it having been established that the Hatfields were wrong and the McCoys were right, give or take a few neon lights.

Now comes the finale where the mother leaves everything to a national meditation board played by two cuckoos, a pinwheel named Mable and a retired guppie. Desdemona elopes with Casanova. The total effect threatens to bring back prohibition.

The moral is clear, "Facing backwards as you go up a moving stairway may be peculiar but it causes more talk." War looks inevitable. Keep your eye on the Balkans, the Phillies, Formosa and the revolving door!

Next week: Leo Durocher and the seven Sutherland sisters in "Cos Cob, I Love You."

Russia seems to have invented an olive branch which is jetpropelled and can fire 3,500 shots a minute.

We know a TV family which boasts that the kiddies are so smart they can name every beer made in America.

Death and the mass funeral of a family of ten killed in a new auto when a trailer truck swerved out of the right lane has aroused the nation to new heights of indignation over reckless operation of trucks everywhere, not a day passing without scores of accidents involving them.

The Moscow radio admits that Russia had a little help from America, England and France in winning the last war. . . . This indicates she is about to short down some more of our airplanes, no doubt.

AUTO REPAIRS
"WHAT'S A SAFE DISTANCE FROM THE CAR AHEAD?"
Every day thousands of minor and major accidents are the result of getting too close to the car ahead. The smart driver, the person who has lots of respect for his 208 bones, stays a safe distance from the car ahead. And what is that distance, you ask me? If you are traveling 35 miles an hour, keep at least sixty car lengths between you and the other fellow. His brakes may be OK, but yours may not. Take no chances on crowding the other fellow, it's dangerous!
Here's another good tip. Broadway Motor Sales is prepared to keep your car in top-notch shape. Our highly trained mechanics know the "ins-and-outs" of every car on the road. For top service, all repair and body work, see us first.

Connecticut Cowboy

By HAL BOYLE

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—A million flaming azaleas have drawn 100,000 visitors here for one of the Southland's greatest festivals of flowers.

Every front yard is aflame with prideful bloom in this mecca of nature lovers. The queen of the annual four day show is lovely Alexis Smith of Hollywood, pretty as an azalea with two stems.

But where there's a queen there ought to be a king. And the king of the flower festival here, partner, is a pint sized Hopalong Cassidy called Bobby Benson.

The grownups come to admire the azaleas and the burning red, but the kids have got a bad case of hero worship for Bobby.

Bobby has achieved the dream of every American boy. He became a famous cowboy before reaching his teens.

Young Mr. Benson at the ripe old age of 12 is radio's top cowhand. His exploits as boss of the B-Bar-B Ranch are broadcast by 50 Mutual network stations, more than double the number that carry such older horse opera standbys as Gene Autry and Hopalong himself.

Bobby gets about 7,500 fan letters a week. He packs two plastic-handled gats. He may be no faster on the draw than Roy Rogers, but has one clearcut edge over every other rival in the professional cowboy field. He is the only one who can sing soprano.

"But my voice is getting deeper every day," said Bobby, who has baritone yearnings.

Many a child star is ruined by adulation. But Bobby has never let his honors go to his head although naturally he is proud that he is the only junior deputy of the National Safety Council and had a stratocruiser named after him. Some people live to be 70 and never even have a helicopter named after them.

Bobby started his cowboy career at 10, and before you could say Tom Mix or William S. Hart he was famous. But already he has old age troubles.

"If I tell the truth, I can't travel half fare on the railroads and airplanes anymore, because I am 12," he said, shaking his blonde head seriously, "and I do have to tell the truth."

Like most of the great gunmen of the old west, Bobby, who comes from Connecticut, has steel blue eyes and a rangy build. He has a golden Palomino horse called Amigo.

"I've only been thrown by a horse once in public," said Bobby, then added honestly, "of course, I've fallen off a few times by myself just trying a fancy trick or two."

Bobby, for all the fact that he is getting to be a financial mainstay of his Uncle Sam, does morning chores around the house to earn his Saturday afternoon movie money. He is an avid comic book reader, and his favorite subject in school is ancient history.

"I get a passing grade in it," he explained. "I'm not so good in arithmetic. I don't seem to get the hang of dividing decimals although I can multiply them pretty well."

"Next to riding horses the thing I like to do best is to draw horses or dogs, particularly on rainy days. I like to collect match boxes, too. I've got about 1,000, I suppose, if I ever count them."

The choice of a life occupation is no worry to Bobby. "I want to stay a cowboy and have my own ranch in Florida," he said. "And ride my own range, singing baritone."

Mrs. Nora Andre entertained at a dinner Sunday honoring her granddaughter, Nova Jean Edgerton's birthday. The guests included Nova Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Edgerton, and Ronald, Bill and Ada Mary of Leetonia, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stamp and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Sidwell visited in the Mrs. Anna and Mrs. Sarah Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Bracken homes near Adena on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Llewellyn of Hatboro, Pa., and their daughter Mrs. Glenn Shown of Hartford were Tuesday visitors in the Mr. and Mrs. Reber Heacock home. They also attended the funeral service of Mr. Llewellyn's aunt Mrs. Anna Starbuck of Salem, Tuesday.

Recent visitors at the Albert Gamble home were Mrs. Gamble's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hall and Ronald and Charlene of West Milton.

Ex-Tiger Sparks St. Louis As Browns Whip Chicago 7-4

Yankees Wallop Detroit, 9-3

Phils Edge Bosox; Braves Beat Dodgers

By BEN OLAN

Follower of the St. Louis Browns will have to take a good look this season to make certain it's not the Detroit Tigers they're watching.

Now fewer than eight of this year's Browns played with the Bengals in 1952 and most of them probably will fill a regular's role. The eight are pitchers Virgil Trucks, Dick Littlefield, Marlin Stuart and Hal White; infielder Connie Berry; and outfielders Vic Wertz, Don Lenhardt and Johnny Groth.

Stuart and Wertz starred yesterday as the Browns whipped the Chicago Cubs, 7-4, at Mesa, Ariz. It was the 14th exhibition victory for St. Louis against only seven losses.

Stuart relieved starter Cliff Fanning in the fifth inning and hurled shutout ball the rest of the way. He has a 2-2 record so far this spring.

Wertz connected for his fifth home run of the training season in the ninth inning. In 1952, he hit 23 homers, drove in 70 runs and batted .277.

Stuart, Wertz, Littlefield and Lenhardt were acquired late last season while Groth, Trucks, White and Berry were obtained from Detroit in trades in the fall.

The Tigers didn't fare as well yesterday. They were walloped, 9-3, by the New York Yankees as the world champions scored eight runs in a wild fourth frame. The Tigers outhit the world champions, 13-7, but they were charged with five errors, two of them in the big inning.

Dale Mitchell's pinch-single with the bases loaded followed by Jim Lemon's three-run homer gave the Cleveland Indians five runs in the eighth inning and a 9-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Bob Feller pitched the first five innings for the Tribe and allowed four runs and seven hits. Al Rosen, Harry Simpson and George Strickland also homered for Cleveland while Bob Boyd and Rocky Krsnick connected for the Chisox.

At Clearwater, Fla., the Philadelphia Phillies put together four singles and a pair of walks for three runs in the 11th inning to edge the Boston Red Sox, 4-3. Granny Hamner's infield safety scored the winning run. Mel Parrnell and Gene Stephens hit home runs for the Red Sox.

A homer by pitcher Lew Burdette with two out in the ninth inning gave the Milwaukee Braves a 3-2 win over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Ralph Branca, an old hand at such things, was the victim of the deciding blow. Warren Spahn, the Braves' ace, worked seven innings and gave up only two runs and eight hits.

Effective pitching by Connie Marrero and Lou Sleater and a two-run homer by Jackie Jensen sparked the Washington Senators to a 7-0 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards were limited to four hits as they dropped their 13th game in 19 exhibition starts.

Lefty Alex Kellner became the first Philadelphia Athletics' pitcher to go the distance as he hurled the A's to a 7-3 win over Baltimore of the International League. Gus Zernial's grand slam homer in the sixth inning provided the winning margin. It was Zernial's fourth circuit blow of the year.

Stu Miller, a disappointment so far this spring, gave up all five of Cincinnati's runs and eight hits in a six-inning stint as the Reds "B" team whipped a St. Louis Cardinal "B" squad, 5-4.

In a night game at Phoenix, a team of Southwestern Mexican all-stars, strengthened by pitcher Mike Garcia and second baseman Bobby Avila of the Cleveland Indians, walloped the New York Giants, 10-3. Bobby Hofman homered for the Giants.

Ike Williams Meets Vic Cardell Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ike Williams, former lightweight champion from Trenton, N. J., now making a ring comeback as a welterweight, meets Vic Cardell of Hartford, Conn., in a scheduled 10 rounder here tonight.

The bout is being televised nationally (ABC) and as a result the Williams-Cardell bout will be the second on the five fight program. The main event is listed for 9 p. m. EST.

Williams and Cardell have met once before, about two years ago in Detroit and Williams won on a technical knockout when Cardell failed to answer the bell for the 10th round.

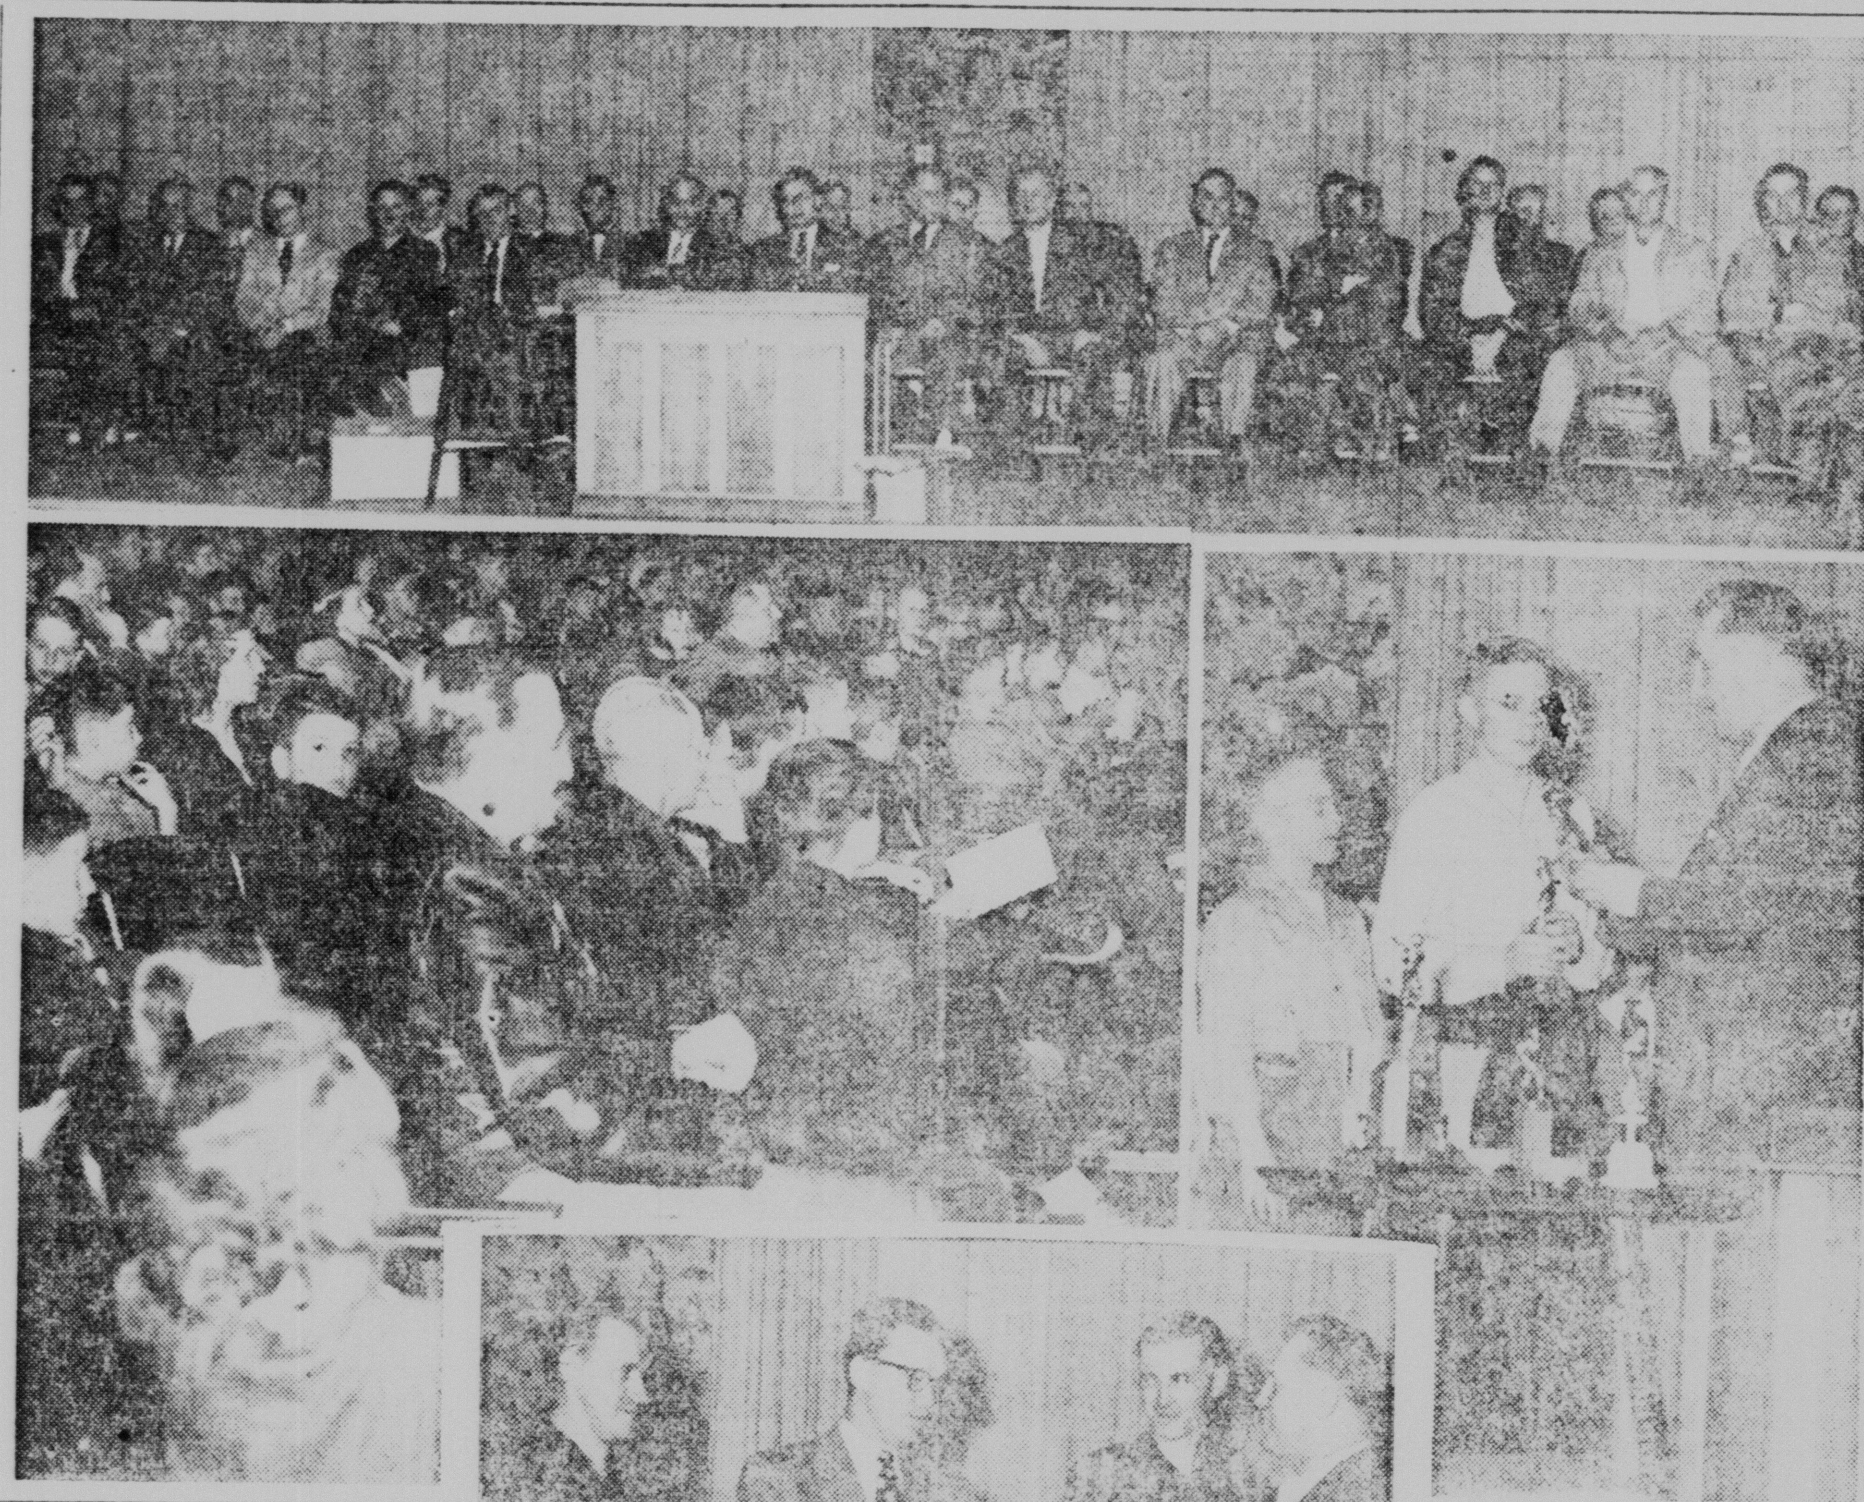

Julian To Wrestle In Struthers Tonight

Frank (Toar) Julian of Lisbon Rd., a professional wrestler, will grapple in the second match tonight at 8:30 with Tom Selvaggio of Cleveland at Struthers Field House.

Julian, who wrestles under the name of Marconi, will meet Selvaggio, in a 30 minute time limit, one fall, bout.

He has made a number of appearances on TV and in arena wrestling bouts during the season.

Others on the Saturday event are: Ruffy Silverstein, Big Bill Miller, Joe Scarpello, Chano Aztec, Len Lombardy and Al Tucker.

Four Homer As Tribe Defeats Chicago, 9-5

TUCSON (AP)—For all the Chicago White Sox care, Cleveland rookie Jim Lemon can be sent to the minors forever.

Chicago is the only American League team Lemon has played against this spring, and his batting average in the fivegame set just completed was .438. That's all.

Included in his seven hits off the Sox were four homers, two off Mike Fornieles, one off Tommy Byrne and one off Bob Keegan. They're all considered Sox starters.

The Indians beat the White Sox, four out of five times, this spring. In all, Lemon has socked six homers this spring, his last being off Fornieles in Friday's 9-5 victory over Chicago. Other Indians hitting homers were Al Rosen, Harry Simpson and George Strickland.

Dale Mitchell won the game with a bases loaded pinch single in the eighth that provided the tying and what proved the necessary winning run.

Bob Feller, pitching against major league batters for the first time, allowed four runs and seven hits in five innings. Actually, he wasn't that bad. The only solid hits were a homer by Bob Boyd and a single by Freddie Marsh.

The contest between Youngstown Steel City Chevrolet and the Massillon All Stars was a one-sided affair, with Youngstown taking a five-point lead in the first frame, and steadily increasing its margin in each succeeding period.

Hine Motor Co. raced out in front of its opponent in a heavy scoring first quarter, 20-11, but bowed to the Farrell Merchants in the second and third periods as the out-of-town team racked up a total of 44 points during the play against Hine's 27. The last frame was more evenly fought, with Hine Motor emerging on the weak end of a 15-14 score.

The Columbiana Youngs continued their winning ways by jumping off to a 12-point lead over Youngstown Smiley's Tavern in the first frame, and increasing their margin by four more points in the next two periods to make the score 59-43 going into the final period.

Youngstown Smiley's Tavern then lashed out with a strong attack, scoring 28 points against the Youngs' 18 in the final stanza, but the game ended with the Youngs still in the lead, 77-71.

In the final games today, Youngstown Steel City is scheduled against the Canton Collegians at 2 p. m., and the Farrell Merchants will take on the Columbiana Youngs at 3 p. m.

The consolation game will be played at 8 p. m., and the final contest will be held at 9 p. m.

Oyakawa Sets Swim Record

Yale Far Ahead In Collegiate Meet

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Mike Peppe, Ohio State's dapper swimming coach, is living proof a fellow can be dejected and elated at the same time.

He was dejected because Yale, with 57 points in the first half of the 14-event program, has just about wrapped up the NCAA swimming crown the Bucks won a year ago. Ohio, in second place, has 5 points.

On the championship angle, Peppe said:

"Just say that Peppe has conceded. The meet is only half over, but Yale is the new champion."

The elation came as a result of a record-crashing 2:05.1 performance in the 200-yard backstroke Friday night by Ohio's Hawaiian-born Yoshi Oyakawa, Olympic and defending NCAA champion.

The islander's feat snipped more than two seconds off the intercollegiate (2:07.2) and the NCAA (2:07.3) records set in 1951 and 1952 by Ohio's Jack Taylor.

"Yoshi's race was just out of this world," Peppe grinned. "You see something like that once in a lifetime. Generally, when swimming records are broken, it's by tenths of seconds, but Yoshi went two seconds faster than anyone in the world has ever done it."

There are no world or American recognized records at the distance in the backstroke, but Peppe predicted sophomore Oyakawa's feat would find its way into the big books.

Yale, showing power in everything, scored in each of the seven events, with senior Jimmy McLane adding the 220-yard freestyle title to his 1,500-meter win to become the only double victor. McLane dethroned teammate Wayne Moore as 220-yard champion.

Moore was second and Frank Chamberlain fourth to give Yale 15 points in the 220, but Ohio exceeded that as sophomore Jerry Harrison, senior Bob Clotworthy and sophomore Morley Shapiro staged a one-two-three finish in the one-meter diving event for 16 points.

Michigan's 400-yard freestyle relay team defending its title in the record-shattering time of 3:24, bettering the 3:25.7 mark the same quartet of Ron Gora, Bumpy Jones, Tom Benner and Don Hill set a year ago. Yale's quartet, finishing second in 3:25.4, also broke the old standard.

Hill, in addition to anchoring the Michigan relay team, took the 50-yard freestyle championship in 22.4 seconds as defending champion Dick Cleveland of Ohio State finished fourth.

Mickey Harris, Tribe Hurler, Quits Baseball

BOSTON (AP)—Left-hander Maurice (Mickey) Harris, who has pitched for the Washington Senators, Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians during a career dating from 1938, says he has retired from baseball.

The 35-year-old hurler announced his decision Friday night, admitting he had a difference of opinion with Cleveland over his 1953 contract. Harris had a 17-9 record with the 1946 pennant-winning Red Sox and compiled a 3-0 mark in 29 games in relief for the Indians in 1952.

employee at a nearby filling station and one of the first to reach the scene, said he "helped carry out at least 10 dead."

"We just put them there on the ground and left them there covered," Aranyons said. "There was no panic among the passengers when I got there."

"There were so many injured we couldn't get any help at first from the passengers. In one car,

Richard Schneider, 23, of East Liverpool, is the only countant listed among the injured in the train crash near Conneaut. He is in Hamot Hospital in Erie, Pa.

a coach, I found two dead. Then I walked around the car in the mud and I heard some people crying in another car."

The accident—touched off by a piece of pipe that rolled off a fourth train into the path of the freight—came just across the Ohio-Pennsylvania line in Pennsylvania.

The wreckage lay in muddy, uneven country four miles or so east of Conneaut amid woods and brush. Stretcher bearers labored a quarter of a mile through the brush to a narrow dirt road on which ambulances slipped and skidded in single file.

No definite death toll could be determined immediately. But, patrolman John Fitzpatrick of the Ohio highway patrol said he saw 15 dead on the ground and five bodies still trapped.

In New York, a railroad spokesman said his latest report showed 15 dead and possibly 10 more bodies yet to be recovered.

Tony Talarico, who ran from his nearby filling station to the wreck, said he counted 25 dead.

An Associated Press reporter said there were 14 bodies in a row by a railroad track and three other bodies to be cut free of the wreckage. He added a patrolman told him four or five others had been removed earlier.

Patrolman Fitzpatrick said 40 injured persons were taken to Erie, Pa., hospitals, 20 to Ashtabula, O., General Hospital and 14 to Conneaut General Hospital.

A. C. Will, chief dispatcher of the NYC's Erie division, said a trainmaster told him about 100 injured were aboard a rescue train heading toward Erie.

The triple crash involved this weird sequence of events:

An eastbound NYC freight train lost a piece of pipe, which fell into the path of a westbound freight. The westbound freight was derailed. Several cars piled atop an adjoining track.

Then the Buffalo to Chicago express No. 5, struck the wreckage of the freight. All but one of the train's 11 cars were derailed.

Then, No. 12, the Southwest Limited, plowed into the wreckage of No. 5. All but three of the limited's 10 cars were derailed.

"It was the damndest mess of wreckage I ever saw," said a Ft. Wayne, Ind., truck driver, O. D. Watson.

Talarico reported, "They're all mangled and everything else. There's about 25 dead already and they're strewn all over the tracks. Telephones poles are down and everything else."

Andy Aranyons, an employee of the filling station operated by Frank and Tony Talarico, said: "I helped carry out at least 10 dead. We just put them there on the ground and left them there covered."

Frank Aleksandrowitz, staff photographer for the Erie Dispatch, said:

"I saw 11 bodies stretched out. In addition there are five persons who are dead in one of the compartments in a car which is so badly damaged that rescue workers are going to have to use torches to clear away the wreckage and extricate the bodies."

"I saw another man lying dead under the tracks. It was an awful sight."

"No one knows yet what the final death toll will be because some of the cars are so badly wrecked they can't be entered immediately. It was one of the worst sights I have ever seen."

"The railroad workers are setting up electric lights now and doing everything they can to get out the dead and help the injured."

State patrolmen of Pennsylvania and Ohio worked with a Red Cross disaster unit, volunteers from the area and railroaders to get the wounded out.

Within a few hours, roads in all directions were jammed with traffic. Thousands flocked into the area.

One impression every uninjured passenger seemingly carried away with him was that there was no panic.

Frederick Peckman of the Bronx, N. Y., said: "No one was hurt much in our car, but I could see some of the injured walking by outside or being carried by the rescue workers."

"We were in the car several hours before they got us out—I think it was about four hours. Instead of a lot of fuss, it seemed almost like everything was too quiet."

"It kinda got on my nerves after awhile."

Frank Talarico told how it began:

"The first I knew of the wreck was when a conductor walked in and said 'call somebody.'"

New Remains Found Near 'Murder House'

LONDON (P) — Scotland Yard detectives today uncovered new remains believed to be human in the garden of London's "Murder House"—a dingy flat that already has yielded the bodies of four women.

The discovery came as anxious police warned the sadistic sex-strangler, now known as "Mr. Murder," may strike again at Monday's full moon.

The flat and now the garden of the house in the seedy Notting Hill district have yielded a series of gruesome discoveries since Tuesday. The killer had walked up three of the bodies in a pantry and the fourth under the floor of the living room.

Earlier, Scotland Yard detectives had expressed fear the killer may have claimed two more victims—21-year-old Margaret Boyle and a young waitress known only as "Kay." Both lived near the Notting Hill horror house—and both are missing.

Col. C. K. Allen, commanding officer, said the new facilities were in line with an announcement by Secretary of Army Robert Stevens that production of artillery shells for Korea would be increased.

He said the expansion would include a warehousing addition to shipping buildings on load lines one, two and three, the mechanization of load line one and the conversion of load line four to anti-tank mine loading.
